FEL Motorsports confirms return to Toronto for third consecutive year

Both FEL Motorsports series set to race on the streets of Toronto in 2024

ST. CATHARINES, ON (November 07, 2023) – On July 19, 20, and 21, 2024 the Sports Car Championship Canada (SCCC) presented by Michelin, and Radical Cup Canada (RCC) presented by Michelin will once again return to the streets of Toronto alongside the NTT IndyCar series.

This marks the third consecutive season the SCCC will race at the event, with the RCC appearing for a second straight year. The Radical race format will be the same race-within-race format with the Blue Marble Radical Cup North America series. The two Radical championships will race on track at the same time but will only compete for points and positions with the cars of their respective series.

The annual Toronto race weekend at Exhibition Place has been the largest event stop on the SCCC and RCC schedules in past seasons, attracting over 148,000 motorsport enthusiasts, which has played an instrumental role in the growth of the two series. The marquee event has also been a valuable networking opportunity for series and team partners. In 2023, the FEL Motorsports VIP Hospitality suite hosted nearly 200 of FEL's immediate and extended network including motorsport legends, fans, and sponsors.

"The Honda Indy Toronto is not only a special event in Canadian Motorsports it is also a special event for me personally. I drove in a support race in the very first Molson Indy in 1986 and raced there several times after that. It is awesome to be a part of this exciting race in the heart of Toronto, the vibe in and around the city is great. We look forward to bringing our teams and sponsors back in front of the Toronto fans," said FEL Motorsports President, Chris Bye.

FEL Motorsports is preparing to release the 2024 schedule in the coming weeks with other exciting news for the new season to come.
